Melbourne-based band Rolling Blackouts Coastal Fever will release their highly-anticipated second album, Sideways to New Italy, this Friday, June 5th via Sub Pop. Today, they release the album's fourth single, "Cameo," which follows "Falling Thunder," "She's There," and "Cars in Space." "Cameo" begins with open guitar strums and Fran Keaney's sweet, assured voice. Then, it thrums with plucking bass, crisp percussion, and Rolling Blackouts C.F.'s signature ability to create a stirring, anthemic track. Undoubtedly an album high point, "Cameo" shows a band at the peak of their power, both instrumentally and lyrically.

"This is a love song. It's about reaching through time portals," says Keaney. "The lyrics were pieced together over about a year like a little puzzle. I found the first pieces in Rushworth, and the last pieces in Darwin."
