“Traditional Techniques is filled with psychedelic whodunits, evil cyber jargon, and unexpected tenderness.” - Pitchfork

“a set of songs unlike anything he's done before in a career spanning three decades.”
- NPR Music

“Malkmus is curious about new ideas but approaches them with self-awareness, comfortable in his status as an outsider.” - The Wall Street Journal

“Traditional Techniques branches into variants of pastoral folk, embracing a surprisingly pretty sound that nonetheless carries Malkmus's singular and unique charm.” -- FADER

“Traditional Techniques is a folk-rock record, with Malkmus playing acoustic guitar and going all the way in on the fireside, cardigan-sweater-and-wool-socks guitar beauty that's long been a hallmark of his solo albums since leaving Pavement over 20 years ago.” -- Rolling Stone

"a sensitive and ravishing LP that stands as the strongest collection of tunes he's put together in years" - Uproxx

Stephen Malkmus presents "Juliefuckingette," an A-side-worthy B-side off of the "rich, dynamic, and pleasantly warm" (New Yorker) Traditional Techniques, his album released earlier this year on Matador. Additionally, he announces a rescheduled North American tour. As with Traditional Techniques, "Juliefuckingette" is new phase folk music for new phase folks. Malkmus' wry lyricism unwinds over his 12-string acoustic guitar: "Abolish the fanfiction set // I don't wanna clean up the logorrhea mess // It's the last brand standing // You know you wanna kill it but you can't kill that quite yet."

Traditional Techniques presents Malkmus as attuned as ever to the rhythms of the ever-evolving lingual slipstream. Informed by a half-century of folk-rock reference points, Malkmus drew from a whole new musical palette for Traditional Techniques--including a variety of Afghani instruments--to support an ache both quizzical and contemporary. Alongside gorgeous folk music, Traditional Techniques presents occasional bursts of flute-laced swagger, straight-up commune rock, and mind-bending fuzz. He's joined throughout by Matt Sweeney and Chris Funk.
