TIM HEIDECKER PRESENTS NEW VIDEO FOR "PROPERTY"

NEW ALBUM, FEAR OF DEATH, OUT NOW ON SPACEBOMB RECORDS

"Property" Video Still

"Glowing like a Laurel Canyon sunset, 'Fear of Death' is Dad rock for the end of the world or, at least, your youth." - Washington Post

"Despite the dark subject matter, much of Fear of Death is deceptively upbeat, with catchy, uptempo numbers like 'Come Away With Me,' the title track or 'Backwards,' which sweetly warns us that 'sun is setting on the good times, oh no.' - Inside Hook

"[Fear Of Death] is his best so far, helped along by an impressive cast starring Mering, whose backup vocals dramatically enhance Tim's raw tenor."
- FLOOD

"[Fear Of Death is] easily Heidecker's best and most fully realized record yet, and not just for his earnest exploration of death's inevitability and the future's instability." - AV Club

Tim Heidecker presents a new video for "Property" from his new album, Fear Of Death, out now on Spacebomb Records. Although "Property" sees Heidecker seriously pondering the possibility of cemeteries becoming part of a capitalistic, real-estate driven world, the accompanying video is grandly absurd. Throughout the video, directed by James Hankins, Heidecker interacts with an over-the-top animated world, playing a piano made of clouds, preaching to chickens, and dancing on the green hills that appear on the album artwork. Musical collaborator Weyes Blood even makes an appearance as an accompanying crystal ball.

"The original idea for the video was really quite simple - let's have Tim inside his album cover," says director James Hankins. "Then I guess I got a bit carried away! The artist Alfie Dwyer and I worked closely together throughout the process going back and forth with sketches and suggestions. In order to make some sort of sense of it all I ended up drawing us a little map of this place we had created so we could visually connect the different zones to one another and help us understand how Tim would exist in there. With the ongoing covid mess and the constant stream of awful news it was actually really fun to escape the real world for a couple of weeks. Genuinely felt like a nice holiday!"
