“Dacus' excavation of joy, pain, exhilaration, and confusion — of the meandering yet razor-sharp observations of a not-quite distant path — gives Home Video its backbone, and makes it hit harder with each listen.”

- Entertainment Weekly, Best Albums of 2021 (So Far)

“Dial in to her wavelength—a bedroom-folk hush poised, at any moment, to explode into a festival-demolishing roar—and every line will hit with freight-train force and precision.”

- The Ringer, The 10 Best Albums of 2021 (So Far)

“An album that glows incandescent in the way [Dacus] maps out all the traumas and bright spots that made her who she is today.”

- Stereogum, The 50 Best Albums of 2021 So Far

“[Home Video is] Dacus’s finest piece yet, where she’s skillfully arranged a canvas of her past in a new light.” - FLOOD, The Best Albums of 2021 (So Far)

Last night, Lucy Dacus made her debut on The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon. Her appearance supports the release of Home Video, her “unsparing, catchy and finely crafted” (Pitchfork) album out now on Matador, and ties up her North American tour, including three-night sold out runs at Brooklyn Steel and D.C.’s the 9:30 Club. She played a Home Video standout, “VBS,” which chronicles Dacus’ experience attending vacation bible school and presents the compassion, humor and honesty of Dacus’ autobiographical writing. In a custom church-like setting and backed by her regular band of Jacob Blizzard (lead guitar), Dominic Angelella (bass guitar), Ricardo Lagomasino (drums), and Sarah Goldstone (keys, background vocal), this marks the Lucy Dacus band’s first in-studio, late night television appearance.
