Girl Talk, Wiz Khalifa, Big K.R.I.T., and Smoke DZA announce Full Court Press, their collaborative album out April 8th on Asylum/Taylor Gang, and today release its lead single/video, “Put You On.” Full Court Press is a culmination of friendships going back ten-plus years and a “unique intersection of all of our work,” says Girl Talk, aka Gregg Gillis. From Wiz's melodic sensibility to K.R.I.T.'s rhythmically tight delivery to DZA's colorful wordplay, all of the artist's distinct styles play off of each other. On Girl Talk's first album since 2010's All Day, his production keeps the project diverse, each song with its own individual style and mood, while still working as a cohesive body of work. The sample selection and arrangements highlight each of the artists' most entertaining and compelling characteristics.

Today's "Put You On" features all four musicians and is the first cut they recorded together for the project. It's a 70s-soul-sampling banger that finds each emcee at his most furiously dialed-in.

Work on Full Court Press began in 2017 when Gillis started collaborating individually with Wiz, K.R.I.T. and DZA. The initial idea was to do separate releases with each of them, but soon after, he brought them together in different capacities, whether it was getting K.R.I.T. on a Wiz song or DZA on a K.R.I.T. song. After listening to the various recordings and other material from those sessions, he was excited about how well it worked as a whole, and eventually brought all four artists together in Los Angeles for a multi-day studio session. Gillis elaborates: "These guys all go back with each other over 10 years, so it was just a great energy in the room. I wanted to have an environment where they could do what they do best; try out a bunch of different ideas and have fun with it." Gillis then took all the material home, remixed some of it, tried out different combinations, and assembled the final album. "Wiz, K.R.I.T., and DZA all have very different styles. As a fan of each of them, I wanted to capture what it is that draws me to their music. It's like with my previous albums, I'm trying to take pieces of all my favorite elements and then recontextualize it into something new."

Wiz comments, "Working with Girl Talk, Krit and DZA was a dope experience. We got to mix all our sounds together and make a true timeless classic."

"Getting together with my brothers Wiz and Krit, and adding Girl Talk to the mix is a perfect combo of swag, raps, weed and lyrics that can't be duplicated," says DZA.

Working with other artists has been a liberating experience for Gillis. From years of expertise at finding unlikely pairs in mashup work, Gillis has an uncanny ability at finding samples that feel like a natural fit for his collaborators. "With any particular sample or beat, I usually have a strong idea of what I'd like to do with it. But when working with other people, it might go somewhere else completely. Sometimes it's difficult for me to shake what I originally had in mind. I think that's partially because I spent so many years working alone, in complete control of every detail. It's both exciting and challenging to be pushed creatively, and in the best situations, you find yourself enjoying someone else's ideas more than what you originally had planned."

Girl Talk kicks off his first tour in over nine years later this month. Many shows are sold out, and a full list of tour dates can be found below. Additionally, DZA is the host of the new Complex Sneaker Battle Show.
