“[Full Court Press is] a breezy 10-song set with three great MCs bouncing off each other, and Gillis’ production feels at once rooted in the warm tones of the Seventies and Eighties, with a few left turns for good measure.” - Rolling Stone

This Friday, Wiz Khalifa, Big K.R.I.T., Smoke DZA, and Girl Talk release their new album, Full Court Press, via Asylum/Taylor Gang. Ahead of its release, they present the banger, “Ain’t No Fun,” and an accompanying video directed by kee and Bawwse. Full Court Press is a culmination of friendships going back ten-plus years; from Wiz’s melodic sensibility to K.R.I.T.’s rhythmically tight delivery to DZA’s colorful wordplay, all of the artist’s distinct styles play off of each other. This is championed in the “Ain’t No Fun” single and video which features all four collaborators at a house party, matching the loose, beat-heavy sonics of the track. “It should be called it’s all fun cause that’s what it is whenever me and my brothers connect,” says Smoke DZA. Big K.R.I.T. adds: “It’s nothing like reuniting with my bros, we all got our own kingdoms. Connected one time like voltron for the culture, the blog era was just the beginning.”

On the video, Wiz continues: “Collaborating with Girl Talk, Big K.R.I.T., and Smoke DZA on this album has been a long time coming. Putting it together and throwing the house party for the ‘Ain’t No Fun’ video was the perfect way to wrap the album.”

Gillis elaborates on the track: “‘Ain’t No Fun’ is a flip on the concept of Snoop’s original, kind of from the female perspective of the titular line. I wanted to keep the production diverse throughout the project, while still maintaining a cohesive feel. This beat stands out in the context of the album because it doesn’t have a sample and uses a more minimal style. But I thought that with some of the specific sound design and the overall energy, it really connected to the project as a whole.”
