Today, Copenhagen’s Iceage present a new single, “All The Junk On The Outskirts,” and announce a co-headline fall tour with Earth. Co-produced by the band, the rollicking song was tracked during the recording sessions that formed their 2018 album Beyondless and has been rattling around the band’s ether since then. They revisited the track in 2021, adding more instrumentation such as keys and vocal harmonies, and finished recording it this year. “I consider this one of the better cuts off the Beyondless sessions, but it ended up being a misfit that wouldn’t quite fit in with the other songs as we put together the tracklisting. Like a piece belonging to a different puzzle,” says singer Elias Bender Rønnenfelt. “Much like it wasn’t welcome with the others on Beyondless, it’s an anthem for those on the outside looking in.”

Praise for *Seek Shelter

"[Seek Shelter is] the result of a band building upward, refining and sharpening their sound until it is a clean, sparkling spire." - Pitchfork, Best Rock Albums of 2021

"Iceage's version of Britpop grandeur is tinged with a dark edge that still leaves room for unexpected grace in the twilight space between dissolution and salvation."
- Stereogum, Best Albums of 2021

"[Seek Shelter is] painfully poignant. It's delightfully disheveled. It's irresistible in its mystical doom. And we'd expect nothing less from Iceage." - Paste, Best Albums of 2021

"Disaster is already here, but Seek Shelter feels sturdy enough to stand the test of time."
- Entertainment Weekly

"[Seek Shelter is] the perfect Iceage statement for a world in need of empathy." - The Ringer
