Mac DeMarco Announces Fall North American Tour

Photo Credit: Yuki Kikuchi

Today, Mac DeMarco announces a fall North American tour, bringing his much adored live performances to Dallas, Austin, Chicago, and many more cities. The newly announced dates follow a slew of California shows with support from Vicky Farewell, the newest signee to Mac's Record Label. Later this month, DeMarco will support The Strokes at New York's Barclays Center before playing a brief international run and select festivals. Full dates are listed below and tickets are on sale now.

In the time since he started Mac's Record Label with the release of 2019's Here Comes The Cowboy, Mac has turned his attention towards signing and releasing projects from new artists. The label's debut signee was Australia's Tex Crick, whose album, Live In... New York City, came out in 2021. Now, Mac's Record Label is set to release Vicky Farewell's debut album, Sweet Company, this Friday, April 8th, before Vicky joins Mac on tour.

"I've been driving around North America for the last couple months in my Toyota, making five easy hot dogs. I've been to a lot of new places, a lot of old ones. Seen a lot of old friends, made some new ones too. Keep your eyes peeled, maybe I'll pop up in your zone soon."
