“Ella Williams, the songwriter behind the indie-rock of Squirrel Flower, doesn’t shy away from whisper-to-shout full-band crescendos on her band’s new album, Planet (i).”
— The New York Times

“After releasing full-length albums at a steady clip over the past two years, Planet EP feels like a long-awaited exhale.” — Pitchfork

“Whether she’s facing a brutal flood or a devastating tornado, [Planet (i)] is a collection of songs rooted in gritty honesty and slow-burning weariness.”
— Rolling Stone

Squirrel Flower — the Boston born, Chicago-based project of Ella Williams — unveils the new single, “Your Love,” a full band reimagination of last year’s Planet EP standout, “Your Love Is A Disaster.” Featuring overdriven guitar from MJ Lenderman, “Your Love” is a stark contrast to the slower, stripped-down original, which was praised by Pitchfork as “a lovely gesture.” “This song is the big version of itself,” says Williams. “I started playing it live with a full band last year and it was so fun I had to record it. Jake put down the incredible solo and voila the song was complete.”

In conjunction, Williams announces a solo East Coast tour coheadlining with Horse Jumper of Love. Following a headlining show at Chicago’s Sleeping Village and a stop at San Francisco’s Rickshaw Stop with NoSo and Maria BC, Williams’ run with Horse Jumper of Love includes stops in Vermont, Maine, New York, Philadelphia and more. Tickets are on sale January 20th at 12pm local time.

In addition to last year’s Planet EP, an intimate look at what makes her one of the strongest and most prolific songwriters of the new decade, Squirrel Flower released the critically acclaimed album Planet (i) in 2021, which was praised in outlets such as The New York Times, Pitchfork, Rolling Stone, and others. Williams also recently collaborated with Polyvinyl label-mates Grapetooth on their new single, “Shining.”
